NOAA TECHNICAL MEMORANDA

EDS National Oceanographic Data Center Subseries

The National Oceanographic Data Center (NODC) of NOAA's Environmental Data Service (EDS) is the central United States repository for unclassified oceanographic data and related marine science information pertaining to the world's oceans, seas, and estuaries. The Center receives data and published information from both domestic and foreign sources, including national data centers of other countries and World Data Center A, Oceanography--the United States subcenter for oceanography in the World Data Center system. NODC compiles the National Marine Data Inventory, which contains information on quantities and types of data, areas of operations, and responsible personnel. NODC services include data processing, reproduction of data, preparation of data summaries and inventories, evaluation of data records, special literature searches, and provision of general marine sciences information.

NOAA Technical Memoranda in the EDS NODC subseries facilitate rapid dissemination of information that may be preliminary in nature and subject to formal publication elsewhere at a later date. Publications listed below are available from the National Technical Information Service, U.S. Department of Commerce, Sills Bldg., 5285 Port Royal Road, Springfield, Va. 22151. Price: $3.00 paper copy; $0.95 microfiche. Order by accession number shown in parentheses at end of each entry.

INTRODUCTION

In 1965, the National Oceanographic Data Center (NODC) compiled an informal paper listing 45 publications containing news about marine sciences or news of interest to marine scientists. The list was revised in 1972 (Ashby 1972).

Since the publication of the 1972 list, a number of newsletters have been discontinued and a number of new publications have appeared. The present list includes 94 newsletters, of which 34 are new. Most of the new publications result from the Sea-Grant Program (Weedman, Scott, and Bunker 1972), which has encouraged the publication of letters announcing news of interest to local fishermen. Other publications announce activities of the local Sea-Grant institutions.

Some newsletters listed are not primarily marine science-oriented; however, they include information about marine sciences either in respect to the area covered, such as the Arctic Institute of North America Newsletter, or in respect to the subject matter, such as those that relate to the environment, thus covering also the marine environment.

In Part I, the newsletters are listed alphabetically. Each citation includes title, name, and address of publisher, frequency of publication, cost (if any), and annotations regarding content. Many publications are available free of charge to qualified users and are cited as "free"; the criteria of qualifications are determined by the publisher.

Part II consists of an alphabetical listing of publishers, indexed to the appropriate newsletter and an index to the newsletters by type of publisher such as academic, Sea-Grant, or business.

Every attempt has been made to include all pertinent newsletters. Most of them are regularly received at NODC; some can be found in other libraries. If any newsletter has been overlooked, please forward a sample for review and inclusion in a future revision of this publication. Address replies to:
